Every year, thousands of people lose money to telephone scams — from a few dollars to their life savings.

Scammers will say anything to cheat people out of money. Some seem very friendly — calling you by your first name, making small talk, and asking about your family. They may claim to work for a company you trust, or they may send mail or place ads to convince you to call them.

Residents beware. If you get a call from someone you don't know who is trying to sell you something you hadn't planned to buy, say "No thanks." And, if they pressure you about giving up personal information — like your credit card or Social Security number — it's likely a scam. Hang up and report it to the Federal Trade Commission.

Flu season is coming, PREPARE!

CDC recommends a yearly flu vaccine as the first and most important step in protecting against flu viruses.

While there are many different flu viruses, a flu vaccine protects against the viruses that research suggests will be most common.

Everyone 6 months of age and older should get a flu vaccine.

People at high risk:

Young children, Pregnant Women, Chronic health Conditions of Heart, Lung and Diabetes

People 65 Years and Older

Vaccination is also important for health care workers, and other people who live with or care for high risk people to keep from spreading flu to them.

EVERYDAY PREVENTION

- Try to avoid close contact with sick people.
- While sick, limit contact with others as much as possible to keep from infecting them.
- CDC recommends that you stay home for at least 24 hours after your fever is gone except to get medical care or for other necessities.
- Cover your nose and mouth with a tissue when you cough or sneeze.
- WASH YOUR HANDS often with soap water. If soap and water are not available, use an alcohol-based hand sanitizer.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose and mouth. Germs spread this way.
- Clean and disinfect surfaces and objects that may be contaminated with germs like the flu.

What can be done to reduce these pollutants from construction activities?

If construction sites are not properly managed, large amounts of soil will be washed away during rainstorms. To protect water quality, runoff and soil erosion should be controlled by using techniques called Best Management Practices (BMPs).

BMPs can reduce construction-related pollution by:

- Minimizing land clearing to preserve natural vegetation and other natural features
- Managing clearing and grading in phases to minimize the amount of bare soil exposed at any given time
- Building and maintaining proper site entrances (to prevent sediment from being tracked onto streets and, ultimately, washed into storm sewers)
- Stabilizing steep slopes
- Installing sediment trapping devices and perimeter controls like silt fences and sediment basins
- Stabilizing areas as soon as possible after land-disturbing activities Other BMPs involve good housekeeping measures, like picking up site debris, cleaning vehicles in designated washing areas, and educating construction workers about the stormwater program and pollution prevention techniques.

What are the problems and solutions associated with stormwater runoff?

Why should we be concerned about stormwater runoff?

Runoff from rainstorms and snowmelt is the most significant source of water pollution today. Stormwater carries sediment, oil, grease, nitrogen, phosphorus, and other pollutants into storm drains and then, untreated, into nearby waterbodies. Because most stormwater drainage systems provide no treatment, preventing contamination of stormwater is crucial to ensure that pollutants are not released into the environment. Municipal drinking water systems may face higher costs if they must treat water contaminated by stormwater runoff. Improperly managed stormwater runoff is also a leading cause of flooding, which can lead to property damage, cause road safety hazards, and clog catch basins and culverts with sediment and debris.

How does runoff degrade rivers, lakes and coastal waters?

Today, natural areas are being replaced by impervious surfaces, like roads, parking lots, and buildings. This transformation can significantly impact waterbodies. Natural areas allow rain and snowmelt to easily infiltrate into the ground. Impervious surfaces, on the other hand, significantly increase the volume and velocity of runoff and the amount of pollutants in stormwater. Fast-flowing water erodes stream banks, enlarges stream channels and releases sediment. Sediment fills the spaces between rocks where fish spawn and aquatic organisms live. It scours streambeds and stream banks, causing additional erosion. Excess nutrients in runoff, especially nitrogen and phosphorus, cause waterbody-impairing algal blooms. As algae die and decompose, oxygen levels decrease, harming or killing fish, plants and other aquatic organisms. Sediment and algal blooms can also prevent sunlight from penetrating deeper waters, killing the plants that provide habitat and food for aquatic organisms.

How does my Septic System Work?

A typical septic system has four main components

1. A pipe from the home: This component is responsible for transporting your household waste out of the home and into the septic tank.
2. A septic tank: This buried, watertight container typically made of concrete, fiberglass, or polyethylene, holds the wastewater long enough to allow solids to settle out (forming sludge) and oil and grease to float to the surface (forming scum). It allows partial decomposition of the solid materials. Compartments and a T-shaped outlet in the septic tank prevent the sludge and scum from leaving the tank and traveling into the drain field area. Screens are also recommended to keep solids from entering the drain field. Newer tanks may also have risers with lids at the ground surface to allow easy location, inspection, and pumping of the tank.
3. A drain field: The wastewater exits the septic tank and is discharged into the drain field for further treatment by the soil. The partially treated wastewater is pushed along into the drain field for further treatment every time new wastewater enters the tank. If the drain field is overloaded with too much liquid, it will flood, causing sewage to flow to the ground surface or create backups in plumbing fixtures and prevent treatment of all wastewater.
4. The soil: The septic tank wastewater flows to the drain field, where it percolates into the soil, which provides final treatment by removing harmful bacteria, viruses, and nutrients. Suitable soil is necessary for successful wastewater treatment. Microbes in the soil digest or remove move contaminants from wastewater before it eventually reaches groundwater.

Adopt-A-STREET

Autumn Fire Safety Courtesy of the Dover Township Volunteer Fire Department

As summer turns to fall, it's a good idea to refresh your memory on fall fire safety tips. Some safety tips are the same regardless of the time of year, but many safety concerns are seasonal, particularly those that involve keeping your home warm.

Outside the Home - Never park your car or truck over a pile of leaves. The heat from the vehicle's catalytic converter or exhaust system can ignite the leaves below. The resulting fire could destroy your vehicle. Flammable liquids should not be stored inside the home or in an attached garage or shed. Remove fuel from lawn mowers before storing them for winter. Contact your utility company if trees or branches are not clear of power lines- also remember to trim the trees near your driveway. Residents who live back long lanes need to realize some of our apparatus is 12 feet high.

Heating your Home - Check all smoke and carbon monoxide detectors to make sure they work, and change the batteries. Have a useable fire extinguisher available and know how it works.

Central Heating - Get your central heating system cleaned, inspected and serviced by a certified HVAC (heating, venting and air conditioning) contractor every year before using it. If you have a gas heater, make sure that you have a sufficient quantity of fully functioning carbon monoxide detectors installed in your home.

Fireplaces and Woodstoves - Have heating appliances serviced and chimney flues examined for defects. Have fireplaces and fireplace dampers checked. Wood burning stoves should be examined and the flue and chimney checked for creosote buildup. Put all ashes outdoors and away from the house in a metal container.

Space Heaters - Make sure that any space heaters are surrounded by at least three feet of empty space. Turn space heaters off when you leave the house or go to bed.

Dover Ambulance 2016/17

Subscription Notice Valid: October 1, 2016 through September 30, 2017

Since 1958, Dover Area Ambulance Club, Inc. (DAAC) has been committed to providing the highest quality Basic Life Support Service to everyone in our area. DAAC is NOT associated with any local Fire Department and is a nonprofit ambulance service. DAAC does not receive ANY local tax subsidy. We rely on donations from the Community and billing to offset the high costs of the service.

DAAC staffs two ambulance daily with paid EMT's. DAAC runs around 2100 calls a year.

SUBSCRIPTIONS DO NOT COVER SERVICES PROVIDED BY LOCAL ADVANCED LIFE SUPPORT UNITS (ALS).

DAAC SUBSCRIPTIONS DO NOT COVER TRANSPORTS BY ANY OTHER AMBULANCE SERVICE.

WHEEL CHAIR VAN SERVICES ARE A SEPARATE SERVICE AND NOT COVERED.

Subscriptions Coverage and Benefits:

Did you know that some insurance companies do not pay for ambulance service as part of their benefits? You will want to see what your coverage is.

DAAC will write off what insurance won't pick up, once copays have been paid.

If you have no insurance, a subscription offers a discount of 15% on services.

You will receive a bill from Healthcare Management Control (HMC) in Lancaster. You can submit the bill to your insurance company or give your insurance information to HMC, so they can bill your insurance direct. Your subscription covers the portion of the bill your insurance does not pay, after the third party providers have been billed.

The Subscription does not cover yearly deductibles that you are "required" to pay.

This subscription is good for three (3) 911 responses including refusal of services.

A participating subscriber shall be entitled to "emergency" ambulance service by Dover Area Ambulance Club, when available, to the closest hospital emergency room in our response area, providing the hospital is not on divert and is accepting patients.
